DIPHTHERIA.

An Official Document.
The State Board of Health has issued the following and is circulating it throughout the State:

PREVENTION OF DIPHTHERIA.
OFFICE OF STATE BOARD OF HEALTH, BOWLING GREEN, KY., Oct. 17, 1889.
To the Health Officers and People of Kentucky:

The unusual prevalence of diphtheria in many sections of the State makes it important that the attention of our health officials and people should be called to the best methods for preventing the occurrence or restricting the spread of the disease.

Diphtheria is both contagious and infectious, attacking persons of all ages, but affecting children much more than adults. It may be communicated from the sick to the well directly, or by means of persons, clothing, toys, pet animals or other things infected by the sick room, and especially by cups or other articles which pass from mouth to mouth.

It is a serious disease, and sometimes seems to originate spontaneously in the presence of bad sanitary surroundings, and certainly spreading more rapidly, and being most fatal in such localities.

Diphtheria is a preventable disease.
Proper preventive measures are almost invariably followed by the immunity of the disease to the first case or cases. When it gets away from the primary cases and makes its escape upon the community, somebody is to blame. The sooner we accept this as a sanitary maxim the sooner we shall begin to do our duties as individuals and as communities.

As soon as it is known that a person has diphtheria, he should immediately be separated from the rest of the family, and put into a sunny, well ventilated and plainly furnished room, preferably on the upper floor, and as disconnected as possible from other rooms, especially the living and sleeping rooms of children. No other persons besides the nurse and other necessary attendants should be permitted to enter the room, and they should take every precaution not to carry the infection to others.

The health officer of the town or county should be notified within twenty-four hours, and he should cooperate with the physician and family to keep the disease from spreading. A blue flag, or a card with diphtheria on it, in large, plain letters, should be placed in a conspicuous position on the house. No child or person having the care of children should be permitted to enter the house.

The discharges from the throat, mouth and nose are exceedingly poisonous, and should be received on soft cloths and burned or immersed in a solution of chloride of lime, six ounces to the gallon of water. The bed and body linen, immediately upon removal, should be boiled for half an hour, or immersed in the chloride of lime solution for twenty-four hours. In no case should such clothing go into the family wash.

No person from a house where this disease has occurred should go to public assemblies, as churches, fairs or concerts, and especially schools.

Persons who have had diphtheria should not mingle with the public for some time after the disease has been cured. The disease has prevailed in the city of Louisville, and should be permitted to enter school except upon the certificate of a physician that it is safe to do so.

In case of death the body should be wrapped in a sheet saturated with the chloride of lime solution, and put in a tight coffin. The funeral should be strictly private, and in no case should children, or those having children, be permitted to attend.

After death or complete recovery the room should be disinfected under the supervision of the health officer or a competent physician. First, the furniture, carpets and other like things badly soiled should be burned.
Such clothing and bedding as can be washed should be boiled or placed in the chloride solution as above directed. To disinfect the room proceed as follows: Arrange the contents of the room so as to expose the greatest amount of surface to the action of the disinfectant. Close the apartment as completely as possible, stopping all openings, as chimney flues, key holes, etc., through which the gas might escape. Thoroughly dampen the floor, walls and furniture. For a room ten feet square use two pounds of sulphur, moistened with alcohol, in an iron pan, placed in a tub containing a few inches of water to avoid danger from fire. When certain the sulphur is burning well, leave the room, close the door and allow the room to remain tightly closed for ten or twelve hours. Afterwards the room should be thoroughly ventilated for several hours, and then the floor, the ledges over windows and doors and other places likely to retain dirt, should be washed with the chloride solution and then with soap and hot water. The house and premises generally should be put in the cleanest and best condition possible.

To be effective the precautions here suggested should be rigidly observed.
Perfect isolation and disinfection are worse than useless, giving rise only to a false sense of security.
County and municipal boards of health have full authority under our laws to enforce these rules, and will fall short of their duty if they fail to do so.

PENNYRILE ENTERPRISE.

How a Wire-Grass Boy Turned the Show into an Advertisement for Himself and Company.

Col. John Milliken, ticket agent for the L. & N. at Louisville, passed through the city to-day on his way back from Franklin, where he had been spending Sunday with his father's family.

When in the city John spends his evenings at the young men's Christian Association rooms, and at other gatherings where evangelical work is done. Last Friday night, however, he was induced to visit the Buckingham theatre, with some of his country friends, who insisted on seeing both sides of city life. They took seats—as was their custom when visiting the synagogue—right up to the front with the other ancient and bearded night-seers.

In the course of the evening a beautiful young girl was introduced to the audience as the most marvelous of all yet discovered mind readers. She was blind folded and a large black board placed just behind her as she faced the audience. Her manager then asked that some gentlemen would second the stage and make a few lines on the board. No one yet accepted the invitation. At length some one nominated Milliken. He blushed and shook his enigmatical locks in token of refusal. The manager insisted, the crowd yelled, and the Colonel at length overcame his well known diffidence, advanced to the front, and as fast as he made the figures the young mind reader cried them out. He saw his opportunity to get in a little free advertising for his road and made the letters
"L. & N."

The large audience fully appreciated the neat way in which he had turned the occasion to his own advantage, and loudly applauded him as he descended the stage with one of his bewitching smiles.

This incident only illustrates the fact that John always keeps two optics wide open where the interests of his road are at stake. In token of their appreciation of the joke, the entire company, consisting of thirty persons, purchased tickets on his line on leaving Louisville.

John is one of our native wire-grass boys, who is always polite, energetic and business like, and the Times is glad to know he has come steadily up and is still a going.

Scrofula in Children.

The following is taken from a letter written under date of July 1, 1889, by Mrs. Ruth Berkley, a most charitable and Christian lady, of Saline, Kan.: "In the early part of 1887 scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild, then only eight months old. Shortly after breaking out it spread rapidly all over her body. The scabs on the sore would peel off on the slightest touch, and the odor that would arise would make the atmosphere of the room sickening and unbearable.
